Apart from the fact that the American people are most likely to prefer solidity and qualities of the solid kind in their Chief Magistrate, there is abundant evidence to show that Mr. Cleveland is not lacking in any of the accomplishments which go to make up the necessary equipment of a public man. The ability to make a good speech is one of them. It so happens that within the past fortnight Mr. Cleveland has made two speeches—essentially different in character and both remarkably good. The faculty of speaking well and happily is a still rarer gift, and for the most part possessed only by a few of nature's choicer spirits. Mr. Gleveland has demonstrated that he possesses this rare

A DAIRY VAULT.

It Is Clean, Cool and Cheap-It Is Also Easily Coastructe L In summer is the time of year when the housewife and dairy-mald strive, almost in valu, to keep milk, cream and butter, at the right temperature-fresh, sweet and palatable. CORNSTALK DISEASE.

It Promises to Seriously Affect the Corn Crop in Several of the Western States. I was called recently to Fayette County. Ohio, to investigate a serious injury to corn, present in many fields, and snspected to be duo to insect attacks. I expected to find either the corn-root louse or corn-root borer presnumber of stalks showed that, while pon occa ional plants, it was not neary abundant enough to cause the mischief. No root borers of any kind were ent in any considerable numbers. I was not of insect origin, and on splitting open the stalks found at the base unmistakable evidence that the damage was due to a hacterial diseaso which has lately attracted considerable attention in Illinois, Nebruska and other Western States. It was first found by Professors Forbes and Burrili in Illinois, and was described by tho latter in a recent bulletiu of the experiment station of that State. I'rof. Burrill says that his attention was first ealled to it by Prof. S. A. Forbes, in 1882 and in succeeding years. It has also been discussed by Dr. F. S. Illilings, in Nebraska bulletins.

The disease is shown by the sickly condition of the piants which are checked in growth soon after coming up, the lower leaves turning yellow and dying. According to Prof. Burrill, "the first indication of this disease in a field of coru as noticed in ordinary observation is the dwarf condition of the young plants. This commonly occurs in spots of various sizes, from a few rods to an acro or more, and often, though by no means always, on soil of a character different from that of the rest of the field. It seems hard to designate what special condition or quality of soil is most usually associated with the disease; but, npon the whole, it is found in rich spots rather than those of poorer quality. In many eases it is upon the lowest ground whether or not water has temporarily stood in the hollows. Young diseased plants, besides being smaller than the healthy ones, are uniformly yellowish in color, the affected plants are pulled from the copper sulphate solution without injurground they are found to give way too ing the seed, as the latter often does. easily, in consequence of the death This hot water troatment consists in of the oldest and lowest roots. Selecting Trees. There is nothing gained in selecting arge trees for transplanting. Young. hrifty trees are easier to transplant, will make a better start to grow, and in the end make a botter tree. Many purchasing trees for an orehard make the mistake of selecting three-year-old trees, under the impression that they will come into bearing that much sconer. With the same idea in mind, they fail to cut back the tops in proportion to the roots, and the consequence is that the tree is slow in making a start to grow and loses in this way fully as nuch, if not more time, than a younger

It is very important in selecting trees, to get those that are vigorous and healthy. With the majority of varieties of fruits, two-year-old trees wili give more satisfactory results than older
